

The Environment Council and Catalyze partner to engage stakeholders in strategic decisions

The Environment Council is the UK's leading charity focused on engaging people for sustainable development; Catalyze designs and delivers structured group decision processes. We work together where broad stakeholder and public dialogue is valued in making the best possible strategic decisions affecting the environment.

Your potential challenges:

- Technical complexity and uncertainty
- The need to accommodate multiple viewpoints and conflicting objectives
- Bringing together technical experts and stakeholders
- The need to consider many different factors including technical and non-technical risks
- Demonstrating accountability
- Contentious background to the situation

Outcomes we can help you achieve:

- Decisions which have been tested, so that they are robust and sustainable
- Clarity, transparency and understanding of the factors that have influenced the decision
- Decisions and their rationale can be communicated to and understood by others
- Greater understanding and sharing of the decision options and trade-offs
- Greater knowledge and sharing of the range of views and perspectives

Solutions we provide:

- Stakeholder engagement and dialogue, both broad and deep
- An effective, proven, facilitated decision process
- Multi-criteria modeling and decision conferencing
- Mutual understanding between technical experts and stakeholders

Our track record of working together:

- Committee on Radioactive Waste Management (UK Government)
- Brent Delta Cell Management Stakeholder Task Group (Shell UK)
